Reveille.

Dedication.

IN recognition of his long and tender devotion and services to our Alma Mater, of his firm and valiant championship in the days of her infancy, of his pathetic nurturing through her trials and adversities, and of his kindness and justice to every student, we dedicate this, the 1906 Reveille, as a token of esteem and admiration

TO

GEN. STEPHEN D. LEE, LL.D.,

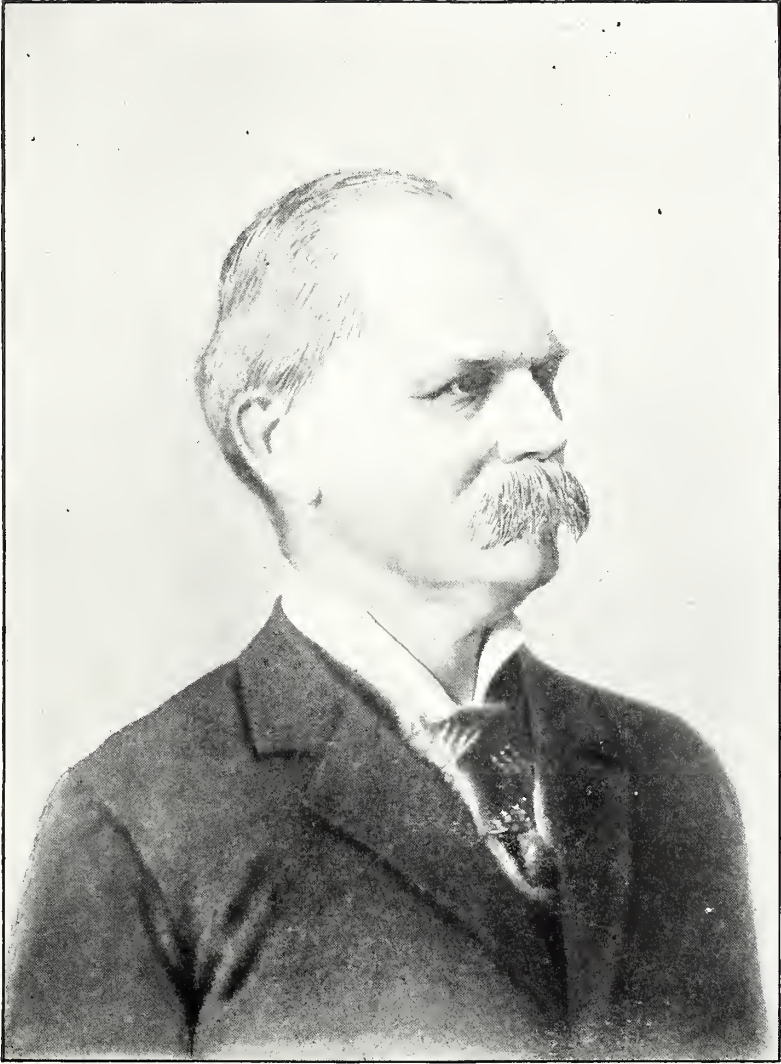

WARRIER; STATESMAN; CITIZEN.

President Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College,

April 1, 1880 to May 1, 1899.

EX-GOVERNOR JOHN M. STONE,
President A. & M. College, May 1, 1899, to March 26, 1900.

JOHN CRUMPTON HARDY, M.A., LL.B., LL.D.,
President A. & M. College.

EDITORIAL.

In this edition of "Reveille" we have again taken up the work left off in 1898. For the book we have no apology to offer. It has cost us time and labor, and we feel that we have done what we could.

We have long felt the need of a more complete summary of the College year than we could get through our College magazine; something to which we, in after years, could turn and be reminded of the College as it was when we were students. We therefore determined to make an effort to get together and compile such materials as would best serve this purpose.

In making up the roll of the Senior Class we have tried to obtain for each man some appropriate verse. You will doubtless notice the absence of such verses after the names of the Editors. We are adverse to criticising ourselves, as it is hard to see ourselves as others see us. Let no one become incensed at what we have said, but remember that you are what you are regardless of what we may say.

To the next editors we wish to say a word. Begin early, work hard, remember the old saying, "Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day." If we have in any particular made it easier for you in the next year's work we will feel amply repaid for what we have done. We hope that the work again begun, you will continue, and make your Annual second to none in the South.

Dear readers, do not be too severe in your criticism; remember that there must be a beginning somewhere, though it be ever so small and that it takes practice to make perfect.

HISTORY OF SENIOR CLASS.

The Class of 1906 had its origin many years ago, and as there is no accurate record of that prehistoric period, we will omit reciting the traditions of those horrible times, and will begin with September 17, 1902, to record our real history.

With E. L. Joyner, President, and W. Lambert, Vice-President, the Freshman year of this class was begun. One hundred and seventy-two members were enrolled, but before the end of the session there were but a few over a hundred of us left. We constituted a little less than one-third of the entire student body, yet we were insignificant in the eyes of those above us; but we were not to be always thus, for the football team needed material. Many of our classmates tried for places, and the best center-rush that ever played on a team at this College was one of these Freshmen; we also furnished a half back. When the football season closed we were simply used as tools by which those above us could earn their future ranks in the Military Department. But when spring rolled around we again came into prominence by furnishing three men for the baseball team.

The baseball spirit ran high in the class as a whole, for each section put forth a team to try to win the championship of the class. It was won by "C" Section. Besides the baseball spirit there existed one of prize-fighting also, but it was confined principally to "A" and "D" divisions.

But few of us were brave enough to enter society, so we occupied our time pretty well with our studies, and when the session was over we were prepared to begin the greatest year of our lives. Our heads were larger than any other classman's; thirty of us had ranks higher, and, taking everything else into account, we were, according to our own judgment, the most important personages in school.

We were joined by thirteen others, and our roll was increased to eighty members. We were very wisely cared for under the administration of J. H. Belford and W. D. Reid. In athletics we again stood at the front, for we furnished the star center rush and a substitute for the football team, and furnished eight out of the twelve men of the baseball squad.

This session, as a whole, bade fair to be a banner one in the intellectual development of young Mississippians; but just after Christmas the measles broke out and were followed by the mumps. When these two epidemics had passed, our ranks had been thinned by men leaving school, and everyone had lost a great deal of time. Even with all these setbacks we pushed forward and worked harder.

This was to have been the year for us to make our debut into Starkville society; but on account of being back in our studies, most of us postponed this important event in our college life. The session's end drew nearer each day, and the nearer it came the smaller grew our opinions of ourselves, for we realized that we were but men, and that our achievements in military glory were but as a mirage in the desert. Commencement came and we were relieved of our corporalships, and given less responsible offices for the next year, and tided over to the session of 1904-1905.

In our Junior year forty-two of us returned and were under the prosperous administration of President A. P. Kerr and Vice-President V. B. Alexander. Though small in number, we were strong in our actions, for we as a class rose up and stamped out "jacking" from among us, thereby setting a good example to the entire school. As a result of our actions in the case we developed into much stronger men from a mental and moral point of view. From a standpoint of physical development, we made great progress. During the autumn nearly all of us played football. We furnished five men for the football team, and our class team won the championship of the College. On Thanksgiving Day our team went to Columbus and defeated a team from the Franklin Academy by a score of 40 to 0. Next came the baseball season. We had a good class team and were beaten only by the "Chicks," and it was Sherman, the Varsity pitcher, who beat us. We also furnished four men for the Varsity team.

Commencement came again, the Seniors received their diplomas, and stepped down and out, while we stepped up and in. The session was late in opening on account of the prevalence of yellow fever, but on November the 1st thirty-nine of us returned and fixed our eyes upon the coveted goal which lay seven and a half long months ahead of us. This being the last year we could spend here together, we banded ourselves together with the determination of making the most of our time. Soon after school opened, we organized and placed ourselves under the direction of our able President W. D. Reid and Vice-President E. Bishop.

On account of the lateness of the opening, we were unable to put forth a class football team; but contented ourselves with furnishing four stars for the team that beat the University.

Our time being limited, we have had all that we could do to finish out our work on time, and as to how well we have done this work we will leave to others to judge.

In leaving this institution, we boast of some things that no preceding class can, and they are: leaders in athletics, a red-headed man, honesty in opinion, and the youngest major.

To compile a real history of this class for the past four years would require volumes, so on account of such limited space, we wish to mention a few of the most important things.

In leaving this institution to help make history for our country, we wish those who follow us unbounded success, and hope that when their historian chronicles the happenings of their college career, he may have a broader vocabulary than ours and all the space he needs. And we beg of you that when you too shall have gone from the walls of our beloved institution, and that if you should pass a grave of one of us, just stop, utter a prayer, shed a tear, and say, "He did his best; angels could have done no more."

HISTORY OF THE JUNIOR CLASS.

As in the formation of a rock a few particles are united together, and the passing wind places more thereon; but at the same time by the process of erosion the rock constantly wears away; just so was the Class of 1907 formed. At first there was only a nucleus, but year by year more members were added, and yet each year some were taken away, until now we have a solid polished rock.

This class as a whole is not without its laurels, and it has warranted the praise that has been bestowed upon it. Bound together by an ardent spirit, eliminating all feelings of enmity, and standing united in action, it has worked in harmony. There has been no discord, and priding themselves on being members of the Class of 1907, each member has worked for the good of the class, and endeavored to secure that unity which is so necessary for strength.

Just as the whole is made up of its parts, so the quality of the whole is made up of the quality of the parts; and the individual members are not without their honors.

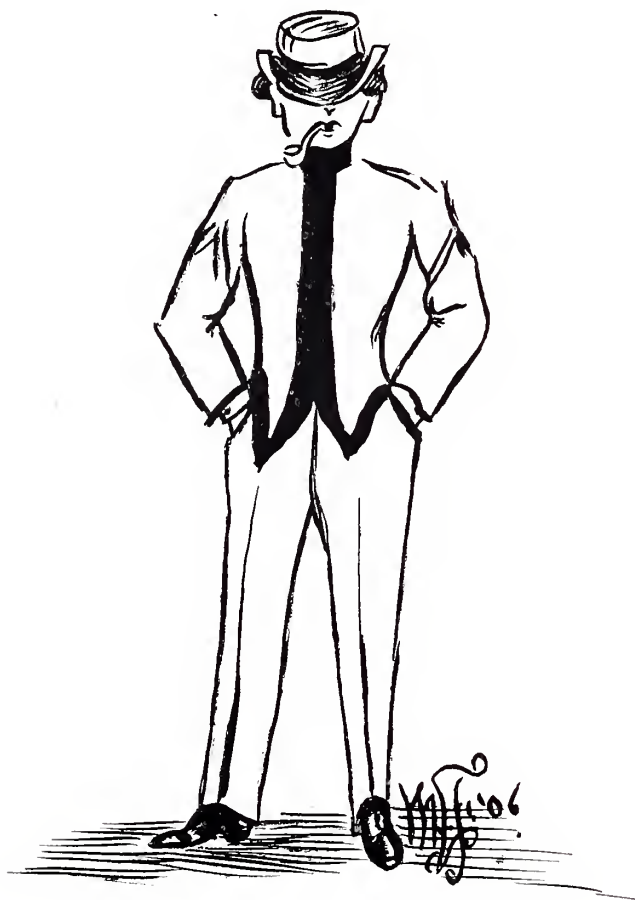

While I will not enumerate these honors to you, it is enough to say that there is hardly a profession or trade that is not represented in the Junior Class, and when they leave school, you may expect results from the training and knowledge that has been received at the A. & M. You will find them in every field of work, from the horticulturist to the author, from the mechanic to the lawyer, from the textile to the literary man, from the agriculturalist to the poet—all lines will be made more dignified by the presence of some of this class.

And now, my readers, when my superior shall tell you about this wonderful class next year, I am sure he will describe to you a rock, solid, polished, smooth and crystallized—in short, he will picture to you the gem of the ocean.

HISTORY OF THE SOPHOMORE CLASS.

It is my duty to present a brief history of the Sophomore Class. Although it is young it has won many laurels.

In September, 1904, one hundred and ninety fellows presented themselves as candidates for the Freshman Class. Not all the boys, however; for they ranged from the timid youth to the bald-headed man. Some who had been to other colleges, and others who had spent a year or two in "Prep" easily submitted to the voke. Those who were entering college, however, for the first time chafed under the strict discipline; but they, too, were soon hardened, and all pulled steadily together. It was not long before we realized the necessity of leaders; therefore all assembled in the chapel and chose several officers to attend to class matters; and selected orange and blue as class colors.

The class took an active part in all college work; was represented on the Varsity Football Team by the stars, McGeorge at quarter, Russell at left end, and Yerger at full back. On the Varsity Baseball Team the class of '08 was represented by Adams in right field, and Woods in the pitcher's box. Our Class Football Team also had the distinction of winning the first game played away from home, scalping the Meridian High School by a score of 5 to 0. The winners of the medals for the best declamations were V. Posey, of the Philotechnic, and C. N. Brumfield, of the Dialectic. Nine were chosen to complete the ranks of the Historic Lee Guard; and sixteen, to perfect the organization of the George Rifles. While our members were being chosen to fill vacancies, it is well to remember that the first Cadet Band was organized in January, 1905; and that seven Freshmen played important parts in this band.

As Commencement Day approached, every move by us was made with caution; for that day would tell who should wear the long hoped-for chevrons—the beloved object of every Freshman. The faces of the disappointed boys were dreadful to behold.

In November, 1905, one hundred and twenty returned to their school home to resume their work at the institution they had learned to love. From the number that matriculated twenty new members were added to the roll, among whom was our welcomed co-ed Miss Clyde Willis. At the organization of the class the usual number of officers were elected, the names of whom appear elsewhere.

The class at present numbers more than any previous Sophomore Class, and is known for its "gameness" and ability. On the gridiron the class was again represented by the "Invincibles," McGeorge, captain and quarter back; Dee, left guard; and McInnis, right guard. By the earnest efforts of a few Sophomores the A. & M. C. Tennis Club was organized. For the Varsity Baseball Team we have already many candidates. In the Academic Department our class is performing many "stunts" considering the short and crowded session. Bright looks the future, and we feel that our class will not fail in the future to do honor to both the College and the State.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY.

On the bleak and windy night of the first of November, 1905, a large package was found, rolled up, on the Chapel steps. Someone had curiosity enough to unroll it, and that person opened a bundle containing two hundred and thirty bawling Freshmen, huddled against each other. They were nearly frightened to death. The four departments—viz., Agricultural, Mechanical, Textile and Pedagogical, were represented in force. The Agricultural division, consisting of four sections, made up a total of sixty-nine men; the Mechanical, of four sections also, ninety-nine men; the Textile, five men; the Pedagogical, thirty.

This Freshman Class, one of the largest in the history of the College, though new men, is not without athletic interest. The football team did not accomplish its purpose in a wonderful measure, but with the present baseball team, the prospects are more promising. Captain Loeb, of the football team, and Captain Hamilton, of the baseball team, have worked faithfully against many difficulties, and hope, after this season's training and reverses, to be able to put on next year's field more promising football and baseball teams.

Most of us came up from the "Prep"—some have been "two-year Preps," sweet little things—and we are rather insignificant in our present position; nevertheless, we hope next year, when we return, to be "Gallant Sophomores."

The Freshman Class—oh, let its light
Shine brightly in the College story!
And ever, in the future, bring
Upon your lives, unceasing glory.

The “Preps”

HISTORY OF THE PREPARATORY CLASS.

Last, but not least in size and number, come the "Preps." They are two hundred and fifty strong, and most of them stand head and shoulders above everyone in College.

It is an established fact that "Preps" make Seniors, but that seems very poor consolation to the "Preps," and I suspect it is for this reason,—that they never give the question a serious thought.

Although they are very ambitious, they never seem to build air-castles about what they will do when they become Seniors; it is always the thought of becoming corporals that inspires them to do their duty and makes it easy to respect the upper-classman.

After we think of it, how can we expect the "Prep" to ever think of rising to the lofty heights of dignity of a Senior when they get the credit of doing everything that is ridiculous whether they are guilty or not. It is the "Prep" that turns the lights off by putting the globe in his dresser drawer; it is the "Prep" that says verses at Sunday morning inspection; it is the "Prep" that taps "Doc"; it is the "Prep" that walks extras, and a thousand other things too numerous to mention. After all of this, no wonder the "Prep" likes to whistle "Home, Sweet Home," and you could not blame them if he should dream of such a place at night.

One thing is very characteristic of the "Preps," and that is to have their picture taken as soon as they get their uniforms.

Now in conclusion, "Preps," allow me to say: though your road is long and rocky; though your head is bald; though your joints are stiff; stick to it and do your duty, and when that long-looked-for day comes that records five years of hard labor, it can be said: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

6:00 A. M.: HERE!

MISSISSIPPI POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE.

1905-06.

The old administration building that stood near the old dormitory of forty years ago has been replaced by a modern structure. The new building has 275 feet front and runs back about 90 feet. It is fitted with all modern conveniences, such as electric heating, electro-magnetic stairway, etc. The first floor is occupied by the Department of English and Foreign Languages. Just inside the main entrance is a marble statue of Prof. W. H. Magruder, who was Professor of English during the early development of the institution. The second floor is occupied by the Department of Mechanical Engineering, the third by the Department of Civil Engineering, the fourth by the Department of Electricity. It was in this hall that Prof. K—— developed his wireless system of electrical transmission. The fifth is given to the study of aerial and subterranean navigation, and the sixth is the College Museum. Among the relics are several caps, an old gun, a bugle, a flashlight, and many other curios that were in use about fifty years ago.

Prof. Bishop, of the famous Class of '06, was a pleasant visitor on our Campus on the 1st inst. He exhibited his new whistlephone, which he has developed after many months of hard labor. It is unique in construction, being operated by compressed air, and can be adjusted to any airship in such a manner that it will whistle out the name of the town. This is quite different from the old-time way when the conductor had to pass through each coach and call the name several times.

Dr. Brock, another member of the Class of '06, was with us on the 10th inst. He presented the electric laboratory with two of his new type storage batteries. They are of 175 K.W. output at 4000 volts. They weigh less than ten pounds each, and can be carried in the vest-pocket. The Doctor conceived of the possibility of the design while a student here. He has used it to a good advantage for annihilating his enemies by simply shaking hands with them. This was the first use sought when he began to study them out. His success is due to his hard study of the subject, and he now reaps his glory, for he is acknowledged as an authority far superior to the famous Dr. Steinmetz.

Governor Reid made a hurry-up trip to meet these gentlemen here, this being the first meeting since their graduation in '06, and it was quite a pleasure to each one. Drs. Smith and Cutrer arranged a nice banquet for their famous classmates. Dr. Smith prepared all of the milk and all the flavors by his new chemical method, while Dr. Cutrer made the ice cream out of some and churned the other. The quality of both the milk and the butter is far superior to that of the Jersey cow's.

Dr. Brock was very much gratified with the progress being made on the new brewery, which is almost completed.

Governor Reid told us of his pardoning three of his classmates. Constable S. C. Spencer arrested "Sim" Lewis, "Butts" Lambert, and "Happy" Johnson for vagrancy, and carried them before Justice of the Peace "Sut" Burns, who sentenced them to serve sixty days at the gas plant of the State Aerial Substation at Jackson. The pardon was recommended by Missionaries Harden and Willis, who had just returned from Dutch East Africa; also by Messrs. Love, Aston, Welch, and Stiles, all of the latter being large planters and former classmates of the unfortunates.

Dr. Taggart, head of the Department of Chemistry in Berlin, and Mr. Alexander, president of the great international cotton goods syndicate, paid us their respects on the 22d.

Our Football Team returned on the 14th inst., from Oxford, England, where they had been to play several games of football with that University. We are very glad to state that they won five out of the six games played. The Englishmen put up a stiff game, but our new battering-ram and punting machine outclassed theirs in every way. We feel indebted to Senators Tate and Oliver for their aid in the developing of this great athletic machine.

The manager of our baseball team has signed a contract to play three games of baseball in Leipsic on April 22d, 23d, and 24th. The team will leave in the College flyer on Sunday and will be gone eight days. They expect to visit all of the large cities of Europe and return by way of Peking, Tokyo, and Honolulu.

Daily service between here and the I. I. & C. has been established, and the students of each institution are very much pleased with the service rendered by the new transportation company. The boys and girls can be together when they like, as there are no restrictions placed upon them.

The large park midway between the two institutions has been completed and is set apart for a lovers' paradise, and can be entered only by the students from these schools. It is open at all times.

The "Reveille" will have its photographic work done in Boston this year. The apparatus has been set in place, and everything is in readiness for the time. The groups will be placed between a huge mirror, and the electrostatic machine will take up the reflection from the mirror and transmit the impression to the headquarters in Boston by the wireless method.

We take pleasure in mentioning that this great invention was perfected by Messrs. Knost, Herrington, Eastland, and Carothers, of the Class of '06.

While moving into the new library last week, H. M. Rush found an old "Reflector," published February, 1908. It contained but seventy pages of reading matter. The Editor-in-Chief boasted of the size of this particular number. What would he say if he could receive one of our issues which contains five hundred and twenty pages of reading matter, and is published semi-weekly?

THE BAND.

IN THE MESS HALL.

A Parody.

The cuisine is not the fairest
In the mess hall;
Holidays are rarest
In the mess hall;
Onions are the strongest,
Their memory holds on longest
And the butter's not the youngest
In the mess hall.

The heart of the Prep is lightest
In the mess hall;
Though the prospect's not the brightest
In the mess hall;
Chickens are the fewest,
Eggs are not the newest,
Milk is always bluest
In the mess hall.

Life's burdens bear the lightest
In the mess hall;
Still thoughts of home oft burn the brightest
In the mess hall;
While the eaters are the keenest,
And the bacon's not the leanest,
Still dishes empty cleanest
In the mess hall.

Turkeys are the grandest
In the mess hall;
Waiters are the blandest
In the mess hall;
Preps are all the fliest,
Flies are ever nighest,
And board bills ever highest
In the mess hall.

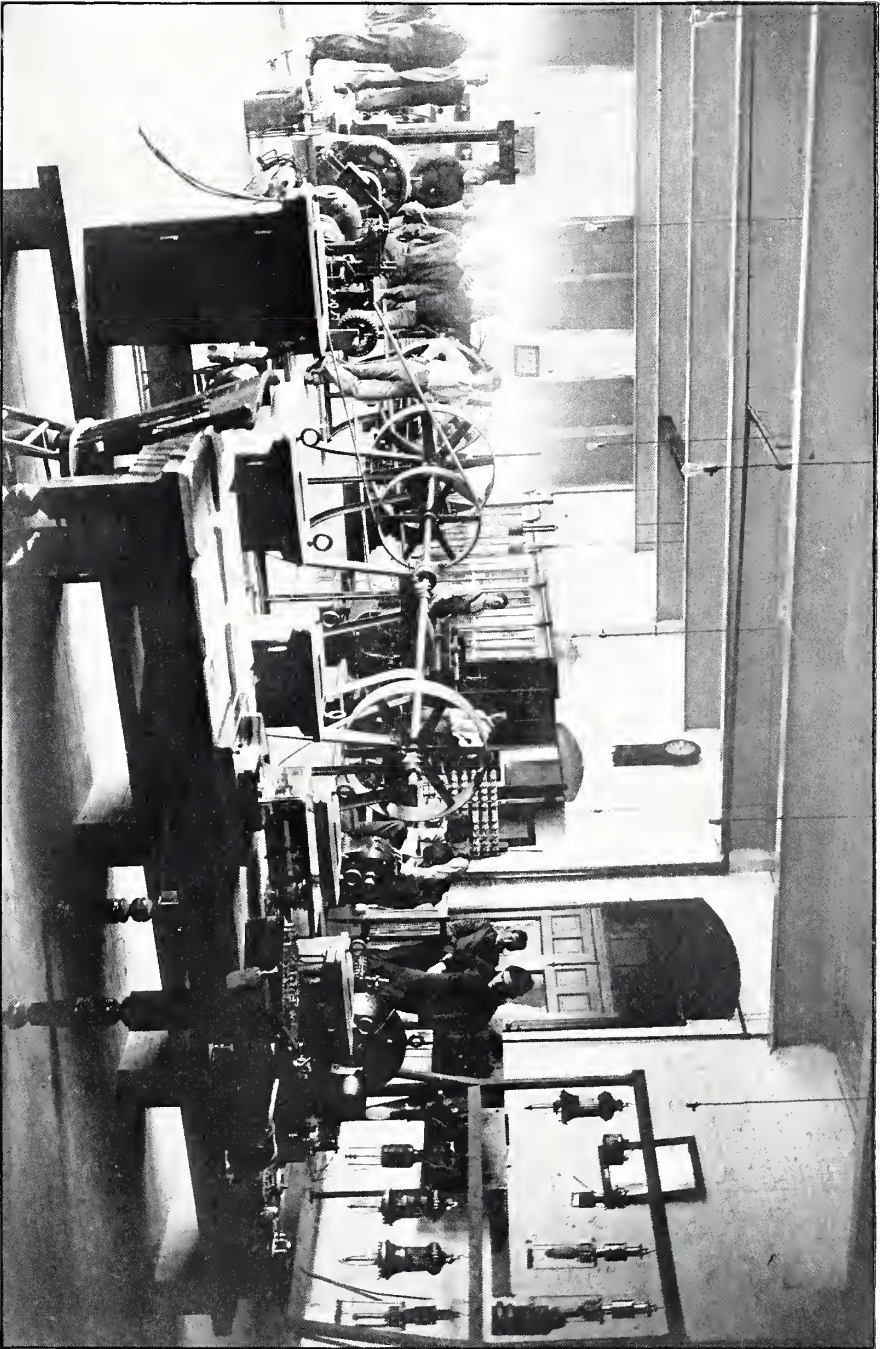

The zip is of the truest
In the mess hall;
Hunger's always surest
In the mess hall;
Salmon's not the rarest—
And by no means of the dearest,
And yet it acts the queerest
In the mess hall.

The adjutant's voice is saddest
In the mess hall;
Yet Preps talk on the gladdest
In the mess hall;
Beefsteaks are the thickest,
Macaroni is the slickest,
And biscuits give out quickest
In the mess hall.

Life is not the sweetest
In the mess hall;
For the major's eyes are fleetest
In the mess hall;
Stacks of wasps' nests tower proudest,
The major yells the loudest,
The menu is the grandest (?)
And bolognas are the d—dest
In the mess hall.

LEE GUARD.

HISTORY OF THE LEE GUARD.

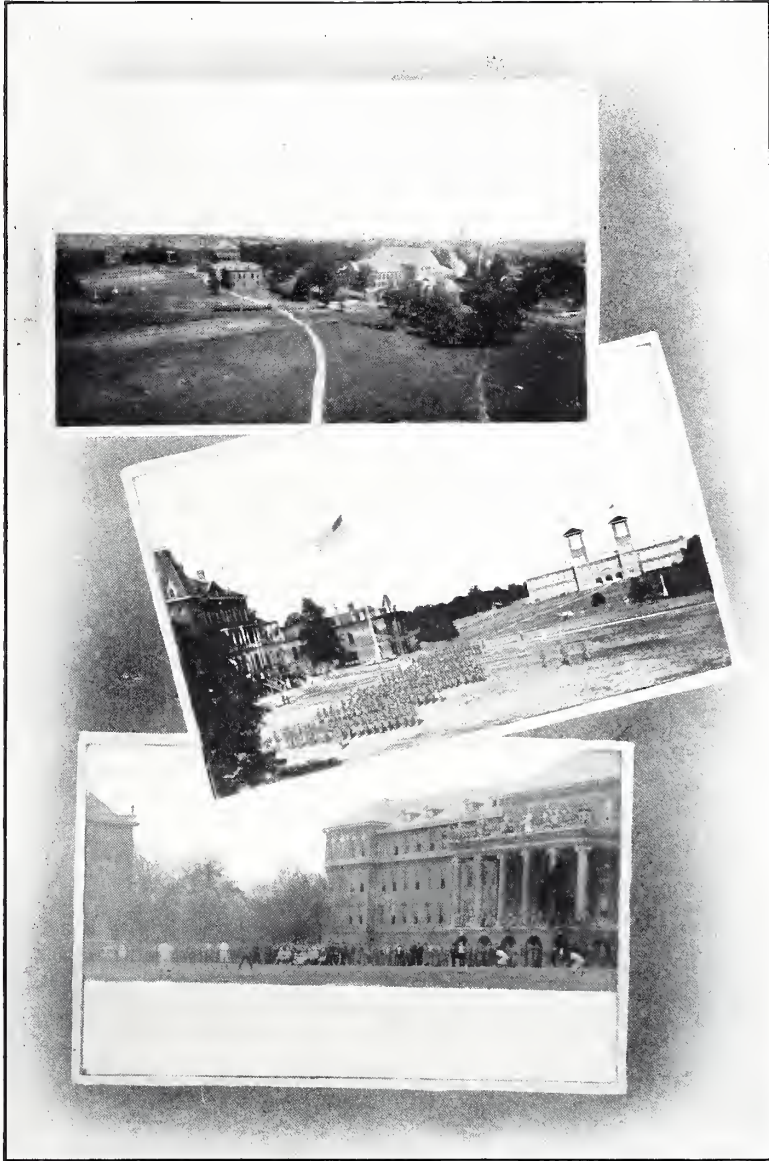

Not so many years after the founding of the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College, the students saw fit to organize, apart from the compulsory military organizations within the military department of the institution, a special company to answer the call from near-by places for companies drilled in fancy movements to participate in memorial and other affairs. To this company was given the name of The Lee Guard, in honor of that gallant Southerner who was then president of this institution, General Stephen D. Lee.

Since the first year of its history, the Lee Guard has been a conspicuous figure in the military circles of the State, holding the honor of being the first among the many of military organizations.

When we name the Lee Guard as being the best drilled company within the State, we speak not from vainglorious ideas nor from selfish opinions, but from what has proven to be.

In December, 1905, the management of the Cotton and Corn Carnival, of Jackson, Miss., announced a competitive drill between the companies of the State to take place during their exhibition of that year. In this contest the Lee Guard entered with the result that a most beautiful flag of royal purple and gold—the company's colors—was presented the Lee Guard as the prize for the superior.

While the Lee Guard is a student organization, yet to it all students cannot belong, for in the selection and election of members we aim to get the best; namely, those of the best physique and military bearing, and who will take interest and pride in the company after their election. Thus you see it is quite a compliment paid one in electing him to our membership.

FORBIDDEN FRUIT.

One Sabbath day at eventide
While walking by the railroad side;
A car of bananas some students spied,
And back to their rooms they did hie
 With a big bunch o' 'nanas.

They up the steps did lightly tread,
And hid the bunch beneath their bed;
They went to sup on "zip" and bread.
When they returned some one had fled
 With that big bunch o' 'nanas.

Two hours after call to quarters,
Their minds were like troubled waters;
They went to the car in a round-about way,
And were surprised to find the Officer 'Day
 "Who comes to this banana car?"

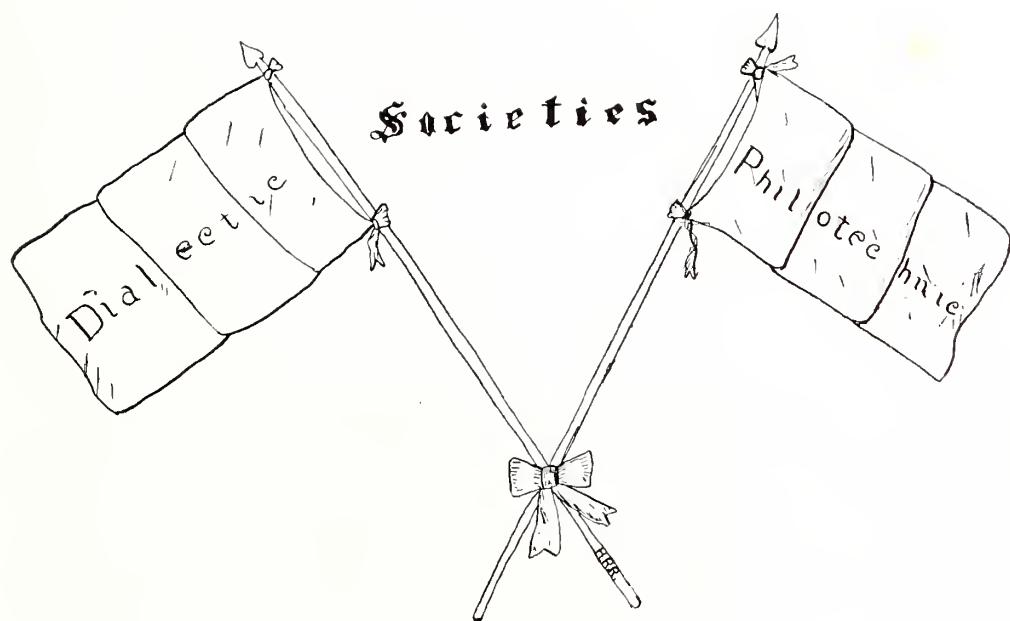

Many matches he did light,
As he heard the culprits speedy flight;
But lo, he could not catch a sight
Of him who in the depth of night
 Came to the banana car.

His matches flashed o'er many a head;
The culprits quaked in violent dread;
And each hurried to his room to bed,
While in Stentorian voice the "O. D." said,
 "Who comes to this banana car."

In their rooms the student breathed a prayer,
While straight on end stood every hair,
And trembled with a ghastly stare,
When the question was propounded fair:
 "Who went to that banana car?"

"I do not know," was the reply,
"Whoe'er it was was awful sly,
For I in the grass did calmly lie,
And watch you, others terrify
 As they went to the banana car."

Next night our major searched o'er and o'er;
He searched the barracks from floor to floor.
His questions rang from door to door,
But when he left he knew no more
 Of those who went to the banana car.

REPORT OF THE DIALECTIC LITERARY SOCIETY.

Owing to the late opening of school this session, caused by the yellow fever epidemic, the society work has not been what we might have expected; although considering the rush for time and the unusual amount of work in our academic duties, we have done exceedingly well.

The membership has increased a great deal, and the attendance also exceeds that of last year by a large number. At almost every meeting the house is full with no vacant seats. Such an increase in attendance shows that the interest in society work is continually growing.

As a rule, the meetings have been more interesting and entertaining this session than ever before. Much of this is due to the addition of music to the exercises, which also, is no doubt partially the cause of the large attendance. Music is furnished by the Dialectic Society Band. At the beginning of the session the society purchased a bass violin and we now have a band consisting of six stringed instruments, which aids considerably in making the work of the society entertaining.

The society meets in its hall every Friday evening at about 7:30 o'clock. The regular exercises usually consist of declamations by members of the Freshman and Preparatory classes, a debate by four members of the Sophomore Class, a select reading by a member of the Junior Class, and an oration by a member of the Senior Class. After this comes the criticism and explanations of parliamentary questions. The meetings usually last from one and one-half to two hours.

Because of the large membership making it impossible for each member to come on duty on the regular programmes often enough to obtain the most good from the work, the fourth regular meeting in each month is given to an irregular debate in which all of the members take part.

During each session we have three public meetings, one in each term. The first consists principally of a debate by four members of the Junior Class and an oration by a member of the Senior Class. The second public meeting, which comes in the middle term is composed of a debate by four members of the Sophomore Class and an oration by a member of the Senior Class. A medal is awarded to the best debater. The third meeting, which is the anniversary of the society, takes place at the close of the last term. It consists of four declamations by members of the Freshman and Preparatory classes, and the anniversary address by the Anniversarian of the Society. A medal is given to the best declaimer.

Another important feature of society work is the Alumni debate, which is a part of the Commencement exercises. Two of the debaters are chosen from the Dialectic Society, while the other two are members of the Philotechnic Society. The A. & M. College Alumni Association gives a medal to the best debater.

The Society was organized in 1880, and had for charter members some of the College's most famous graduates.

A regular meeting is held every Friday evening in the Society Hall and a public meeting during each term in the Chapel.

The work of the Society consists of declamation, participated in by members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes; debate, by members of the Sophomore and Junior classes; and oration and reading, by members of the Senior class.

A set of officers is elected to serve for each term. The Anniversarian, however, is elected for the whole session.

The year just closing has been characterized by an unusual earnestness, fixedness of purpose, and zeal in the work upon the part of the membership. The Y. M. C. A. has thus exerted a strong moral and religious influence upon the lives of many men in the student body, and has sought in many ways to make itself useful in furthering the cause of Jesus Christ.

Now have these efforts been fruitless. The Association has enrolled a membership of 275. The Sunday evening services have been regularly held, well attended, and marked by a spirit of earnestness and deep reverence upon the part of all who have attended. The Wednesday evening prayer-meetings have been a source of inspiration and spiritual power in the lives of a large number of men who have been in regular attendance. At least twenty Bible classes have been conducted throughout the year with an aggregate membership of 250 men, a large percentage of whom have been in regular attendance at all the weekly meetings. These means, together with a large and active committee to hold out a helping hand to new students at the beginning of the year, are illustrations of the manner in which the Association is seeking to line up to the spirit of all genuine religious work—that of love, sympathy, and service to men.

Two of the most urgent needs of the Y. M. C. A. interests are a well-equipped and adequate building and a general secretary consecrated to the work of furthering the religious spirit among College men. A movement looking toward the realization of the first of these needs has already been inaugurated; and it is confidently believed that with the construction of an adequate building will come also the realization of the second need, that of the general secretary, whose entire time shall be given to this work.

About the 15th of April, 1904, eight students and three instructors met in the Dialectic Society Hall, in response to a call for such a meeting. After a thorough discussion, it was unanimously decided that the time was ripe for a successful attempt to secure a Y. M. C. A. building fitted to meet the needs of the students especially in spiritual things.

It was suggested that, as a test of the earnestness of those present, each state the sum he felt able and willing to pledge. The result was eleven responses amounting in the aggregate to one thousand dollars.

On motion it was further resolved, "That those present and any others who may be subsequently taken into this circle do hereby pledge to each other, to the Y. M. C. A. interest of the College, to Christian morality and manhood, and to the glory of our common Lord, that we will do everything in our power to secure a first-class Y. M. C. A. building at the College, with the view of making the Y. M. C. A. the controlling moral influence in the student life of this institution."

As showing the further progress of this movement, the following extract from a circular issued by the Building Committee, December 21, 1904, is here quoted:

"Here at the Agricultural and Mechanical College, the students are earnestly working to secure a well-equipped Young Men's Christian Association building. Believing, as we do, that healthy religion requires the development of man's whole nature, we propose to include in this building, rooms for religious meetings, for social gatherings of students and their friends, and for reading. In addition to these there are to be rooms for the literary societies and for the editors of the College paper. There will be also a good gymnasium and swimming-pool. The aim, in short, is to encourage in every branch of student life a wholesome activity under manly Christian influence.

"Now to erect such a building as that already described, large enough to meet our needs, will cost about thirty thousand dollars. It is our firm conviction that the boys are entitled to such a home, and that it will prove effective in helping them to overcome the temptations arising from a bare life in dormitories away from home influences. So strong, indeed, is our conviction about this, that already the students have pledged themselves for thirty-four hundred dollars, payable on or before September 15, 1906; the president and seven teachers have pledged themselves for sixteen hundred dollars, and three friends of the institution who understand our conditions have pledged themselves for gifts equivalent in value to one thousand and fifty dollars."

The movement is now in charge of the Building Committee, with Mr. T. W. Davis as chairman, who is much interested in the movement, and is trying to press it to an early conclusion.

Purpose.

The John Sharp Williams Club of Economic and Social Science aims at making its members realize their duty as educated men to study such economic, political, and social questions as bid fair to affect seriously the welfare of Mississippi or of the Union. The stress is laid on developing breadth of view and patriotic sincerity of purpose. It is held that candid examination of the known facts is the only sound basis for any definite conclusions about public questions.

It is, accordingly, part of the policy of the Club to invite representative citizens to discuss before it from time to time various public questions from different points of view. Careful examination of the views expressed by such speakers and by writers of important articles upon the topics in hand is an essential part of the Club's work.

Members are chosen for life. These are taken chiefly from the undergraduate students of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Mississippi. The number of such students at any one time shall usually not exceed ten.

College Men

DESIGNED

SCHLOSS BROS. & CO.
Fine Clothes Makers
Baltimore And New York

Are, as a rule, the best-dressed fellows in the world.

Only a small percentage have their clothes made to order; ninety-nine in a hundred buy everything ready to wear.

At Harvard, Yale and Princeton and at all the great Eastern colleges, you'll find a host of the swellest-looking men wearing

SCHLOSS CLOTHES

Not so much on account of their moderate cost—though that's an item, too—but because there's really more style and snap and satisfaction—and the certainty of a far better fit—in these clothes than in any other, no matter what they cost.

For one thing, they're hand-tailored. Then, too, the designs are copies of the latest metropolitan styles. But, best of all, they possess an originality, a distinctiveness that marks their wearers as well-dressed men of the world.

Be sure you get the genuine—always marked by this label—

Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Organized 1880.

Attendance Last Session, 731.

O B J E C T .

To promote the liberal and practical education of the masses.
Four separate and distinct courses, the Agricultural, the Mechanical, the Textile and that of Industrial Pedagogy. Theoretical instruction in each course, supplemented by the practical work in field, garden, shops and laboratories.

Conditions of Admission.

Applicants must be 15 years of age and of good character.

To enter the Freshman Class they must be able to pass on examination in English Grammar, Arithmetic, Geography and United States History. Those who have not fully completed these studies may enter the Preparatory Department, provided they are not in reach of a High School.

Expenses.

The average cost of board per month for the last session was $6.35. The cost of uniform, board, books, furniture, etc., for the entire session is about $135. Many students earn enough by labor in the farm and garden to reduce their expenses below $100.00.

Correspondence Is Cordially Invited.

The College has dormitory accommodation for 750 students, and its equipments for literary, scientific and practical instructions is full, varied and excellent.
